

Council on America's Military Past

Membership and Renewal

Council on America's Military Past (CAMP) is one of the leading national military history organizations dedicated to preserving, interpreting and sharing our military heritage. Our purpose is to identify, memorialize, preserve and publicize America's military history including the structures and facilities used by our soldiers, the living conditions, customs and traditions of our men and women in uniform, and the progress and purpose of United States military organizations.

Each of CAMP's publications are distributed three times per year: Journal of America's Military Past (March, July, November), Heliogram newsletter (January, May, September), and electronic-only The Persistent Preservationist (April, August, December). CAMP's Directors send digitally a CAMP News Roundup in February, June, October.
